

GOVERNMENT CENTRAL BANK IN CHICAGO PROPOSED

That President Roosevelt will be urged to recommend the establishment of a Federal bank of issue as part of plans to be devised to prevent money famines and financial disturbances such as the country has been passing through during the last few weeks, is the belief of persons here who have conversed with Western Senators and Representatives who have been in Washington recently.

One of the strongest advocates of a Government central bank of issue is Senator Henry C. Hansbrough of North Dakota, who is a member of the Senate Finance Committee, and who will discuss the subject with the President at the White House on Monday. Senator Hansbrough would establish the central bank in Chicago, "near the center of commerce and agriculture, and as far away from the speculative atmosphere as possible."

In discussing the question today he said:

"I think the establishment of a central bank of issue under the full direction of the Government is the only solution of the financial question as it has presented itself again to the people of this country. Really, we cannot go on in this way. The financial flurries and squeezes which are of frequent occurrences in the great money centers of the country are the legitimate offspring of a bad financial system. These things do not occur in European countries, where they have their banking system on a solid and enduring basis under complete government control. Until we adopt a central bank of issue or something like it there will be no permanent relief."

"How about William Jennings Bryan's proposal that the Government guarantee deposits in national banks?" Senator Hansbrough was asked.

"That is not at all a new proposition," he replied. "It has been discussed in Congress, and many bills providing for such a scheme of guarantee have been introduced and considered by the proper committees of the two houses. It certainly has some merit in it, and there is no reason that I can see, why it should not be adopted in connection with the central bank idea."

Last Saturday night Miss Young entertained a party of friends in a very novel and delightful manner. About six couples were present. One of the events of the evening was a guessing contest; the name of each guest being represented on a card by various pictures, original drawings and characters, some of which were not particularly flattering to the name it represented. The guessing evoked considerable merriment. Later a luncheon was served, which proved beyond all reasonable doubt, Miss Young's genius as an entertainer. The moot court organized at the party given by Miss Barker some weeks ago, again held a session, which was like the show posters tell about—"One Long Laugh." The little gathering broke up at a late hour—an hour indeed, which was too late to print.

A certain gentleman known as "Honest John," and who was offering for sale and selling quantities of all kinds of wares at marvelous prices on the streets of Tucumcari one day this week, was interrupted in his business enterprise by the presentation of a warrant for his arrest for selling goods without a license. He paid the costs and discontinued business. Tucumcari is fast taking on city ways, and street fakirs, etc. will have to learn that Tucumcari is enforcing the law.

Watch for Santa Claus

He will be at our store and hold a reception in honor of the Children

Thursday December 12th

From 3 to 6 p. m.

If he arrives in time, he will ride through the principal streets in an automobile before the reception. He wants to meet all the little folks and will have something for every one who comes to see him. He has established a postoffice at our store and wants every child in Quay county to write and tell him just what they want him to bring Christmas. To the little girl under ten years of age who writes the best letter he will give a handsome doll, and to the boy under ten years of age he will give a repeating air gun. Contest closes December 23rd, 1907.
